

Subject: Seasonal Schools in Signal Processing: Now accepting proposals for Winter 2020-2021!

Distribution: SPS members

Target Audience: Prospective Seasonal School organizers as well as future conference organizers who would like to co-locate a Seasonal School with their conference are encouraged to submit a proposal.

Seasonal Schools in Signal Processing

Winter 2020-2021 proposals being accepted now!

Are you looking to energize signal processing students, early stage researchers, and industry practitioners in your area? Consider hosting a Seasonal School for young engineers near you!

Seasonal Schools are interactive events designed to provide attendees with specialized background in select signal processing topics. Professors and established practitioners work closely with attendees in hands-on tutorials and applications, building meaningful collaborative relationships.

The IEEE Signal Processing Society is happy to provide up to US$5,000 of support, on an application basis, to help offset the cost of these workshops and conferences, and we're accepting proposals for Winter 2020-2021 Seasonal Schools now!
